The Cisco technology has been critical in helping FASTWEB provide a cloud-based service within which customers can set up and configure an entire virtual data